Coat of Arms

Risher

Historiography

The Risher Coat of Arms, illustrated by an heraldic artist, employs symbols upon a shield following the traditional system of heraldry which originated in medieval times. Heraldry, which developed among the nobles in the 11th Century, was instituted primarily for the purpose of distinguishing one man in armor from another during the confusion of battle. The heraldic symbols, or charges, chosen by an individual for his personal coat of arms could reflect his heritage, achievement, rank, occupation or personal characteristics.

Individual surnames originated for the purpose of more specific identification. The four primary sources for second names were: occupation, location, father's name and personal characteristics. According to Elsdon C. Smith's New Dictionary of American Family Names, the surname Risher was locational in origin and meant, "one who came from Rischen, (rushes)." This and other sources placed the name originally in Germany and England. The most common variation of Risher is Rusher. The Risher Coat of Arms is based on information derived from its meaning, linguistics or historical interpretation.

Heraldic artists of old developed their own unique language to describe an individual Coat of Arms. In the traditional language of heraldry, the Risher Coat of Arms would be described as:

"Or; a bundle of rushes vert, surmounted by two German helmets, sa., the plumes gu., placed side by side in chief."

Translation and Interpretation:

The Risher Coat of Arms consists of a green bundle of rushes, a reference to the definition of the name, surmounted by two black German 15th Century helmets, with red feathers, placed side by side in the upper part of the shield.

Information available to us indicates that in 1972 there were less than 675 heads of households in the United States with the old and distinguished Risher name. The United States Census Bureau in 1970 estimated that there were 3.1 persons per household, which means that fewer than 2092 people in the United States bear the Risher name. In comparison, some of the most common family names are shared by over two million people.

The plaintiffs claim title to land as heirs of AARON ROOT, deceased, their father. From the record it appears that BENJAMIN D. ANDERSON as his administrator sold the land in controversy October 1840. Plaintiffs ages appear in the record. Defendant showed deposition of B. C. EARLE to show the record of Pontotoc was not perfect. Defendant offered to prove by FALCONER that in 1840 in Holly Springs Banner where the citation was published, was published by one FOSTER who is beyond the State limits, that defendent offered receipts for publication notice. Defendant introduced one TEEL as a witness
